

Google Home Speech Assistant

Smart home applications like speech assistants can ease everyday life for everyone but not more so than people with disabilities. They can enable barrier-free living and by engagement can enhance the quality of life greatly.

Like smart phones took over the world, one thing is for sure: more smart assistants will be needed. That's why we want to incorporate this technology in our home to help everyone remain independent and keep control of their surroundings, as time goes by these devices will be part of day to day life and help eliminate barriers further.

You can ask this little device to:

Turn on the lights, tv or even open a door,
Make a call, call for help or play your favourite radio station.
It can remind you when to take your medicine,
facts and figure, addresses and where you left your passport.

Just ask!

Transforming lives and building hope...
